

Architects build model to allow people to have their say on future of Hoxton

PUBLISHED: 11:41 10 July 2018 | Sam Gelder

People have been invited to observe the model. Picture: Jan Kattein

“Dynamic new proposals for the evolution of Hoxton” are being created in a gallery this month – and anyone can change them.

Receive the twice-weekly Hackney Gazette newsletter directly to your inbox

Our Privacy Policy

Future Hoxton, an initiative led by William Hodgson, senior teaching fellow at the Bartlett School of Architecture and architect Jan Kattein, has seen a large scale model of the area put on display at Peer in Hoxton Street.

The idea is the model will evolve over the three week stint with locals and workers invited to make changes to it through workshops themed around the home, work and recreation.

William said: “We are committed to full engagement with the Hoxton community on how they would like to see their area develop. Using a real model is a very effective way of doing this, which goes far beyond the current practice of presenting large-scale two-dimensional plans and written policies.”

PROMOTED CONTENT

‘Want to foster in Hackney? Support and love is key – not your sexuality, race or religion’

To celebrate LGBT history month, Hackney resident Amanda talks about her journey to becoming a foster carer, with the council's support and training.

Education and Training

Read the Education and Training e-edition today

Newsletter Sign Up

Hackney Gazette twice-weekly newsletter

Email Address*

Name*

- Keep me up to date on special promotions, products and services from Archant Community Media Limited
- I am happy for Archant Community Media Ltd to contact me on behalf of third parties (we will not share your information with these third parties unless you give us consent to do so)